Experience Matters...

So does knowledge and credentials.

That's why our doctors keep learning and our entire clinical team are all x-ray certified by the State of Michigan

Technology helps us look at your oral environment as more than just teeth. What some call new and advanced are techniques and processes we've used for many years:

- 43 years of more biologically compatible materials from fillings to implants.
- 19 years of same day crowns and bridges. Scanned, no goopy impressions!
- 19 years of ultra-low radiation diagnostics (x-rays, only taken as needed)
- 19 years of Ozone Therapy that doesn't interfere with your medications or health conditions.
- 18 years of comfortable lasers that heal wounds and treat gum disease without cutting and stitches (and most of our hygienists are Laser Certified, too!)
- 11 years of treating TMJ and sleep issues related to Apnea in adults (not a C-PAP)
- 9 years of using your own blood cells (PRF) to help you heal more naturally.
- 7 years of Healthy Start solutions for sleep-disordered breathing for children

CITY OF THE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON HISTORY

Although the signs welcoming visitors to Clarkston say it was founded in 1832, the first land purchases were made nearly a decade earlier, in 1823, by the Williams family of Waterford Township.

By 1831, early inhabitants including Linus Jacox, Butler Holcomb, John and Thomas Beardslee and Melvin Door established homesteads, and it was not long before more settlers from New York and New Jersey arrived.

They included Jeremiah Clark in 1832, followed by his brother, Nelson, who built his home in 1839 in what would become the Village of Clarkston. It still stands at 71 N. Main Street.

The Clarks were extremely involved in their newly adopted hometown. They built a sawmill and gristmill, started a fish hatchery, opened a general store and served as postmasters. They also were active in local politics as Jeremiah was township supervisor and justice of the peace.

In 1840, they platted the village and two years later, in 1842, grateful settlers voted to name the village Clarkston.

By 1877, the Clarkston area grew to include nearly 1,400 residents as well as thriving farms and businesses. The village was home to several stores, including furniture, clothing and jewelry shops, as well as hotels, wagon makers, harness makers, liveries and – to keep the growing population healthy – three physicians.

Schools and churches sprang up, too. Sashabaw School was built in 1834 at the corner of Maybee and Pine Knob roads, and its earliest students included children from the Beardslee and Riker families. Nelson Clark built the Union School in 1840 in the center of the village, and it was operated as a private academy until 1862, when it was sold and turned into a public school. In 1910, the original frame structure was replaced by a new high school, which decades later would house an upholstery factory for Ford Motor Company before being converted into Independence Township Hall. Today, it's back in private hands.

Clarkston's spiritual needs were, at first, handled by Methodist missionaries from Detroit and Saginaw who conducted services in schools, homes or barns. Clarkston's first church – the Methodist Episcopal Church on Buffalo Street – was completed in 1847 and replaced by a brick and stone structure in 1873 that today is a private residence. At the same time, the First Baptist Church was erected on Main Street and now – as a testament to Clarkston's will to embrace historic structures – houses a nationally known restaurant.

Once the railroad was established in 1851, tourists from Detroit and Pontiac discovered Clarkston's charming lakes, farms and woodlands. It wasn't long before hotels like the Demarest House, Vliets-On-The-Hill and Deer Lake Inn were built to accommodate the influx of summer visitors, and a new opera house on the top floor of the downtown Maccabees Building kept them entertained.

Local beaches provided relief in those days before air conditioning, despite a law warning bathers to wear long coats and keep legs covered or face a $100 fine. The Clarkston Band strolled the village streets on summer evenings.

Today, the area, like many formerly rural townships, continues the challenging task of balancing the needs of a modern society with preservation. In the 1970s, a group of concerned citizens worked to add Clarkston to the National Register of Historic Places. These citizens were the founding members of the Clarkston Community Historical Society. Becoming a National Historic District ensured the protection of Clarkston's surviving historic structures, preserving the charm, character and serene lifestyle that appealed to its very first residents.

With careful planning and cooperation, Clarkston's rich history will be cherished for generations to come.

Administratively, Sue Wylie was appointed mayor in Nov. 2023 after Eric Haven resigned and runs the city alongside City Manager Jonathan Smith, City Clerk Karen DeLorge, and the Clarkston City Council, which includes Mayor ProTem Laura Rodgers.

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Independence Township is a charter township of Oakland County with a population of 36,686 at the 2020 census.

The township, 45 miles northwest of Detroit, was first organized in 1834. It surrounds the City of the Village of Clarkston, but the two are administered separately after Clarkston incorporated as a city back in 1992.

The first settlers arrived in Independence Township in the mid-1820s and early 1830s, primarily from New Jersey and New York. The first settler to purchase and settle land in the township was John W. Beardslee, from Sussex County, N.J. Independence Township was named by one of its earliest settlers, Joseph Van Sycle, who came to the area in 1834 from Independence Township, N.J.

While initially the township was primarily agricultural, the many lakes in the area were beginning to draw vacationers out of Detroit and other cities. In 1851, the railroad came through Clarkston, which prompted hotels to be built in the township to accommodate the resort vacationers coming to the area.

By 1834, nearly every section in the southern half of the township had been purchased, while only a few settlers had ventured north into sections 14 and 15. The lower sections of the township, characterized by flat plains, were generally more conducive to farming. The Sashabaw Plains, located in the southeastern corner of the township, were the most notable plains, extending north and south nearly three miles, and east and west about two and a half miles. This is the area where many of the earliest settlers first purchased land.

The rest of the township was a mix of flat plains, rolling hills and numerous lakes connected by branches of the Clinton River. There was considerable marsh surface in the vicinity of these lakes, and nearly all were bordered by swamps.

In 1840, there were 830 people in the township.

The invention of the automobile had a tremendous effect on Independence Township. Roads that were once Native American trails were paved and widened for this new mode of transportation. The old Saginaw Trail, now known as Dixie Highway, was paved as early as 1920, and Main Street (M-15) in Clarkston was paved around 1922.

The expanding national highway system brought I-75 through Independence Township in 1962, spurring both business and residential development. Many farms gave way to subdivisions and strip malls as Independence Township continued evolving into part of Metropolitan Detroit.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the township has a total area of 36.30 square miles, of which 34.99 square miles is land and 1.31 square miles is water.

The township is run by a board of trustees, with Jose Aliaga serving as supervisor after winning the general election in 2022. Aliaga took over for Gerald Fisher, who was appointed in 2021 after Patrick Kittle retired with a year-plus left in his term. A full-time clerk (Cari Neubeck) and treasurer (Paul Brown) are also part of the board of trustees, which holds twice-monthly meetings open to the public.

Major landmarks in the township include Pine Knob Music Theatre, which celebrated its 50-year anniversary in 2022, and Pine Knob Ski Resort, as well as many parks and lakes.

Clarkston Coalition for Youth

Serving the families and the Community since 1996

Who we are-

Amidst the tapestry of our endeavors lies the golden thread of our funding, woven by the hands of two grants. Our guardianship is guided by the esteemed Oakland Community Health Network and the Alliance of Coalition for Healthy Communities. Through our enchanted offerings of School Enrichment Programs, we have partnered with Be Kind, AWOD, CHS & RHS staff appreciation, You've been Capped, Adopt a Senior, managed the Senior Info page on Facebook, and provide information into topics such as Anti-Drug & Bullying, Vaping, Underage Drinking, Mental Health and Suicide. We've hosted iconic events over the year such as Spring Break Clarkston style, Drug Take Back Day, and Alcohol & Tobacco Education for Vendors and so much more. The beacon guiding our journey is to offer support to families, teachers, and the community, illuminating the perils of the risky behaviors that our youth face in today's world. To this end, we embrace the 40 Developmental Assets, a framework that illuminates the path for our youth to reach their highest potential.

The Clarkston Coalition for Youth is looking for volunteers who are looking to give back to the community that has given to them.

We want to offer you a rewarding opportunity and make the most of your special talents and expertise. Go to www.clarkstonyouth.org for more information

ART IN THE VILLAGE

For four decades, Art in the Village has been an autumn tradition in Clarkston, bringing thousands of shoppers to the city's historic Depot Park. Always held on a September weekend, this show is hosted by the Clarkston Community Historical Society and features carefully selected artisans from across the region.

In addition to paintings, pottery, sculpture, photography, jewelry and other handmades, the show - the Society's primary fund-raiser - features live music, free children's activities and food sold by local civic groups.

CONCERTS IN THE PARK

The Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce sponsors Concerts in the Park. FREE concerts are held in Depot Park, located in the heart of Historic Downtown Clarkston. Concerts are on Friday evenings beginning in June and running through mid-to-late July. Local talent warm up groups play prior to headliners, with the headliners performing from 7 p.m. - 9 p.m.

SHIVER BY THE RIVER

Shiver by the River, held each year in January, is sponsored by Positively Clarkston. Activities such as ice skating, music, children's crafts in the warming tent, S'Mores, Chili, Hot Cocoa, snowshoe demonstrations and a 'make your own dogsled' relay race that have families working in teams for the grand prize.

OAKLAND COUNTY FAIR

Summer fun at the Oakland County Fair kicks off at Springfield Oaks County Park, 12451 Andersonville Road, in Davisburg the beginning of every July.

"We have a little of something for everyone," said Oakland County Fair General Manager LC Scramlin. "I see all the excitement of our vendors, exhibitors and the people coming. It just overwhelms you to see that much excitement. It's almost a year's worth of planning. I realize why I do it and why it is so important for so many people. It is just a thrill, rush of a lifetime when we kick things off."

The fair includes a variety of family-friendly fun, including daily shows, events in the main arena, Big Rock Amusements carnival, food and over 500 exhibitors with animals to show or for auction as well projects in the Ellis Barn.

Aside from the exhibitors are more favorites like the fair attractions of Racing Pigs, Show-Me Safari Petting Zoo and Master Chain Saw Artist Ben Risney the Chainsaw Artist. New to the fair last year were Hot Glass Academy, which had a series of glass blowing demonstrations, and K9s in Flight, showcasing the world's top Frisbee dogs, big air high-jump dogs and high flying dock-diving dogs in one show.

New to the main arena for 2023 was Dave Bennett in concert and ATR Monster Trucks. Battle of the Gyms with youth and amateur boxing was also part of the attractions.

Many favorites came back to the main arena last year, including Figure 8 Races, Off Road Demolition Derby, Micro Wrestling, Superkicker Rodeo, Night of Destruction and Monster Trucks. Fireworks and the crowning of Oakland County Fair Royalty add to the excitement.

CLARKSTON CHRISTMAS MARKET/ HOLIDAY LIGHTS PARADE

Coinciding with the annual Holiday Lights Parade in early December, both free events, the market takes place at Depot Park, before and after the parade. Food trucks, local vendors, pony rides and writing letters to Santa are part of the fun. Santa himself meets families at the park's gazebo to take photos with children.

The parade, put on by Team Rush 27, Clarkston High School's Robotics program, runs down Main Street and ends at Calvary Lutheran Church for the annual tree lighting.

"It means the world to see the community come together to celebrate the holidays in downtown Clarkston," said Team Rush 27 coach Kyle Hughes.

"What better way to spread the holiday cheer than by immersing yourself in the enchanting world of a bigger and better small-town vintage Christmas Market right here in Clarkston presented by the City of the Village of Clarkston," said market co-chair Laura Rodgers.

WINTERFEST

An annual free event put on by the Clarkston Area Optimist Club in late January/early February, WinterFest takes place at Depot Park and includes ice skating, food, visits from Disney characters, s'mores, music, children's games, and more.

For more information, visit ClarkstonOptimists.org

OPTIFEST

Another free event hosted by the Clarkston Area Optimist Club, OptiFest takes place late in the summer, last year at Renaissance High School and in 2022 at Bay Court Park. Last year's event featured DJ entertainment, a bicycle safety clinic, games, bounce houses, hot dogs and brats, and a pie eating contest.
